HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

The American Academy of Actuaries was organized as an unincorporated association on October 25, 1965, as a single body to represent the whole of the actuarial profession in the United States of America. In the spring of 1966, when it was determined that a federal charter might not be obtained and in any event it would be long delayed, the Academy was dissolved as an unincorporated association and on April 29, 1966, became a corporation organized under the Illinois General Not For Profit Corporation Act.

The work of the actuary in the fields of pension funds and other forms of employee benefits and in the fields of life, health, and property and casualty insurance has assumed a position of considerable public importance, and it is essential that all persons who hold themselves out to be actuaries are qualified to perform their duties in a fully competent manner and in the public interest.

The seemingly obvious need for legal recognition for actuaries had been discussed from time to time, but it was not until the late 1950's that there was organized activity to obtain such recognition. It soon became clear that, despite the fact that most of the practicing actuaries in the United States belong to one or more of the four actuarial societies (namely, the Casualty Actuarial Society, the Conference of Actuaries in Public Practice, the Fraternal Actuarial Association, and the Society of Actuaries), not one of these could speak for the whole profession.

Further, there were some fully qualified actuaries who were not members of any one of these bodies. After full discussion between representatives of the four existing organizations, it was decided that the proper vehicle for the approach to professional recognition must be a new body embracing all existing qualified actuaries practicing in the United States. This decision was approved by the governing boards and members of the four organizations, and, as a result, the Academy of Actuaries was formed. The organization of the Academy was the first step toward accreditation of actuaries and the official recognition of the profession. The Bylaws of the Academy lay down requirements of both competence and conduct for the members.

The establishing of the American Academy of Actuaries was not accomplished without a great deal of work by many individuals, both inside and outside the actuarial profession, to whom all actuaries owe a debt of gratitude.

5. The purpose or purposes for which the corporation is organized are:
  - (a) To advance the knowledge of actuarial science, which had its origin in the application of the doctrine of probabilities to human affairs and from which life insurance, pension plans, casualty insurance, and other analogous institutions derive their principles of operation;
  - (b) To encourage the consideration of all monetary questions involving, separately or in combination, the mathematical doctrine of probabilities and the principles of interest;
  - (c) To promote education in actuarial science and the interchange of information among actuaries and among the various actuarial organizations;

(d) To establish, promote and maintain high standards of conduct and competence within the actuarial profession.

In furtherance of these ends the Academy may promote activities to recruit and educate those who desire to become actuaries and to undertake such other activities as may seem desirable.

AMERICAN ACADEMY OF ACTUARIES
(THE ACADEMY)

(A CORPORATION ORGANIZED UNDER THE ILLINOIS GENERAL NOT FOR PROFIT CORPORATION ACT)
AS ADOPTED APRIL 29, 1966 AND LAST AMENDED JANUARY 10, 1970

ARTICLE I
MEMBERSHIP

SECTION 1. Members. Individuals having membership in the Academy shall be called "members."

Members shall be entitled to vote, hold office, make nominations, and generally exercise the rights of full membership. They are authorized to designate themselves as "members" of the American Academy of Actuaries and to append to their names the initials M.A.A.A. In all references to members, words implying the masculine gender shall include the feminine gender.

SEC. 2. Requirements for Admission to Membership.

A. On the date the first Board of Directors meets to adopt the initial Bylaws and to elect the first Officers of the Academy, hereinafter called the "Date of Organization," the following shall be enrolled as members:

1. All persons who on the said Date of Organization were members in good standing of the American Academy of Actuaries, an unincorporated association. (A member "in good standing" is one who has paid the dues of the said unincorporated association for the year 1966 or who, because of age or disability, under the terms of the bylaws of said association has been exempted from payment of dues.)
2. Any person who became a member of the predecessor unincorporated association at its date of organization or subsequently by approval of his application for membership and who (a) has not paid the 1966 dues of said association, (b) has not been exempted from such dues because of age or disability, or (c) has not resigned his membership in said association, shall by mailed notice be given an opportunity to pay the 1966 dues of $10 to the Academy and become a member. If the dues remain unpaid thirty days after the mailing of such notice, such person thereafter may become a member by applying for membership and by fulfilling the requirements for new members in effect at the time of such application.

- B. After the Date of Organization. Any person not enrolled under paragraph A may apply for membership and shall become a member by meeting the following experience and education requirements (and if not a resident of the United States such other requirements as may be established by the Board of Directors), provided that his application is approved by at least 75 per cent of the whole Admissions Committee and confirmed by a majority of the whole Board of Directors or is approved by more than 50 per cent but less than 75 per cent of the whole Admissions Committee and confirmed by at least 75 per cent of the whole Board of Directors. Each candidate for admission shall submit an application which shall include a résumé of his education, background, and experience, together with such other information as the Admissions Committee may request.

1. Experience Requirements. If the candidate for membership has attained Fellowship by examination in any of the actuarial organizations named in paragraph 2 below, he must, at the date of his application for membership, have had five years of experience in responsible actuarial work. Each other candidate must, at the date of his application, have had seven years of experience in responsible actuarial work. "Responsible actuarial work" is defined as work which has required knowledge and skill in solving practical actuarial problems in any of the following fields: life and health insurance involving individual policies, group insurance, social insurance, pensions, and property and casualty insurance.

2. Education Requirements.

- a) A candidate who was, at the Date of Organization,
  - (i) a Fellow or Associate of the Casualty Actuarial Society
  - (ii) a Fellow, Member, or Associate of the Conference of Actuaries in Public Practice
  - (iii) an Active Member or Associate of the Fraternal Actuarial Association, or
  - (iv) a Fellow or Associate of the Society of Actuariesshall be deemed to have met all education requirements.
- b) Each other candidate shall be required to apply under either a Life and Health Insurance and Pensions Major or a Property and Casualty Insurance Major. To demonstrate his educational qualifications for admission during any one of the periods, enumerated below as (i)-(v), the applicant must complete, before the end of the applicable period, the requirements specified below for such period. The examinations referred to shall be examinations given by the Academy or examinations recognized and accepted by the Academy given by other professional organizations:

(i) Until January 1, 1970.

To be admitted during this period, a candidate may be required by the Admissions Committee to provide it with satisfactory evidence of his knowledge and skill by taking an examination specially designed for this purpose.

(ii) January 1, 1970, to December 31, 1970.

(A) To be admitted during this period, a candidate applying under the Life and Health Insurance and Pensions Major shall be deemed to have met all education requirements if he is an Associate of the Society of Actuaries; otherwise he shall be required to have passed a comprehensive examination in every one of the following numbered subject categories:

- (1) General mathematics,
- (2) Probability and statistics,
- (3) Numerical analysis and compound interest,
- (4) Life contingencies, and
- (5) Demography, principles underlying the construction of mortality and other tables, elements of graduation of mortality tables and other series, risk theory, and the sources and characteristics of the principal mortality and disability tables (including the methods used in their construction and graduation) and of the principal mortality and disability investigations.

(B) To be admitted during this period, a candidate applying under the Property and Casualty Insurance Major shall be deemed to have met all education requirements if he is an Associate of the Casualty Actuarial Society; otherwise he shall be required to have passed a comprehensive examination in every one of the following numbered subject categories:

- (1) General mathematics,
  - (2) Probability and statistics,
  - (3) Compound interest and life contingencies,
  - (4) Principles of economics, theory of risk and insurance coverages and policy forms, and
  - (5) Principles of ratemaking, insurance statistics, and data processing.
- (iii) January 1, 1971, to December 31, 1971.
- (A) To be admitted during this period, a candidate applying under the Life and Health Insurance and Pensions Major shall, in addition to meeting the education requirements applicable in the calendar year 1970, be required to have passed a comprehensive examination in one of the following numbered subject categories:
- (6) Actuarial aspects of life insurance accounting, valuation of liabilities, and investment of life insurance funds,
  - (7) Selection of risks for individual life insurance, gross premiums for individual life insurance and annuities, expense analysis, and analysis and distribution of surplus for individual life insurance and annuities, and
  - (8) Group insurance, employee retirement plans, individual health insurance, and social insurance.
- (B) To be admitted during this period, a candidate applying under the Property and Casualty Insurance Major shall, in addition to meeting the education requirements applicable in the calendar year 1970, be required to have passed a comprehensive examination in one of the following numbered subject categories:
- (6) Insurance law, supervision, regulation and taxation, and statutory insurances, and
  - (7) Premium, loss and expense reserves, insurance accounting, and expense analysis.
- (iv) January 1, 1972, to December 31, 1972.
- (A) To be admitted during this period, a candidate applying under the Life and Health Insurance and Pensions Major shall, in addition to meeting the education requirements applicable in the calendar year 1970, be required to have passed a comprehensive examination in two of the following numbered subject categories:

- (6) Actuarial aspects of life insurance accounting, valuation of liabilities, and investment of life insurance funds,
- (7) Selection of risks for individual life insurance, gross premiums for individual life insurance and annuities, expense analysis, and analysis and distribution of surplus for individual life insurance and annuities, and
- (8) Group insurance, employee retirement plans, individual health insurance, and social insurance.

(B) To be admitted during this period, a candidate applying under the Property and Casualty Insurance Major shall, in addition to meeting the education requirements applicable in the calendar year 1970, be required to have passed a comprehensive examination in one of the following numbered subject categories:

- (6) Insurance law, supervision, regulation and taxation, and statutory insurances, and
- (7) Premium, loss and expense reserves, insurance accounting, and expense analysis.

(v) On and after January 1, 1973.

(A) To be admitted during this period, a candidate applying under the Life and Health Insurance and Pensions Major shall, in addition to meeting the education requirements applicable in the calendar year 1970, be required to have passed a comprehensive examination in each of the following numbered subject categories:

- (6) Actuarial aspects of life insurance accounting, valuation of liabilities, and investment of life insurance funds,
- (7) Selection of risks for individual life insurance, gross premiums for individual life insurance and annuities, expense analysis, and analysis and distribution of surplus for individual life insurance and annuities, and
- (8) Group insurance, employee retirement plans, individual health insurance, and social insurance.

(B) To be admitted during this period, a candidate applying under the Property and Casualty Insurance Major shall, in addition to meeting the education requirements applicable in the calendar year 1970, be required to have passed a comprehensive examination in each of the following numbered subject categories:

- (6) Insurance law, supervision, regulation and taxation, and statutory insurances, and
  - (7) Premium, loss and expense reserves, insurance accounting, and expense analysis.
- c) The examinations referred to in this Section will emphasize the application of the candidate's knowledge and skills to the solution of appropriate problems and may include (i) open book tests with ample time allowed for the candidates to demonstrate thoroughness and judgment and (ii) oral examinations designed to evaluate the candidate's professional experience.
3. Modification. The Board of Directors, upon the recommendation of 75 per cent of the whole Admissions Committee, may, by a vote of at least 75 per cent of the whole Board, modify the foregoing requirements for a candidate who has substantially satisfied such requirements if, owing to special and unusual circumstances, it is deemed that such requirements would be inequitable and unreasonable unless so modified.

ARTICLE II

MEETINGS OF THE MEMBERS

There shall be an annual meeting of the members each fall at such time and place as the Board of Directors, hereinafter called the "Board," shall designate. The agenda of the annual meeting shall be as follows:

- a) Approval of minutes of previous meeting.
- b) Report of Officers.
- c) Old business.
- d) New business.
- e) Elections.
- f) Adjournment.

Special meetings of the members may be called by the Board. Upon request of not less than 5 per cent of the members, the President shall call a meeting of the members. At all meetings fifty members shall constitute a quorum. Notice of a meeting, specifying the place, date, and hour of the meeting, shall be given to each member not less than twenty nor more than forty days before each meeting.

ARTICLE III

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

SECTION 1. Composition. The Board shall consist of eighteen elected members, the Officers, and the two immediate Past-Presidents.

SEC. 2. Election and Term of Office. At each annual meeting the members shall elect six members as elected members of the Board to serve for a period of three years. Specifically, the term of office of a Director shall begin at the close of the annual meeting of the Academy at which he is elected and shall continue until the close of the annual meeting at the end of the term for which he was elected and until his successor shall have been elected. Members receiving the greatest number of votes shall be elected, provided the number of votes received is not less than one-third of those cast. A retiring elected member of the Board, other than one who was elected to fill a vacancy, shall not be eligible for re-election as an elected member at the annual meeting at which his term expires. A Past-President shall not be eligible for election as an elected member of the Board at the time at which his ex officio membership on the Board as Past-President expires. If a vacancy occurs among the elected members of the Board, including a vacancy created by the election of an elected member of the Board to an office, it shall be filled for the unexpired term by majority vote of the whole Board.

SEC. 3. Meetings. There shall be an annual meeting of the Board within forty-eight hours after the close of the annual meeting of the Academy. Special meetings of the Board shall be called whenever the President or at least five members of the Board so request.

Meetings of the Board may be held either within or outside the state of Illinois. Notice of the annual meeting of the Board may be given to each Director either personally, by telephone, by mail, or by telegraph. Directors elected at the annual meeting of the Academy immediately preceding the Board Meeting shall be given notice promptly after such annual meeting. Other Directors shall be given notice not less than ten or more than thirty days before the annual meeting. Notice of a special meeting shall be sent to each member of the Board not less than ten nor more than thirty days before the time appointed.

During any interim between meetings of the Board, the President may obtain Board action by using mail ballots.

SEC. 4. Quorum. At meetings of the Board, one-third of the members of the Board shall constitute a quorum.

SEC. 5. Duties and Powers. The Board shall have, in addition to the powers and authority expressly conferred upon it by these Bylaws, the right, power, and authority to exercise all such powers and to do all such acts and things as may be appropriate to carry out the purposes of the Academy. Without prejudice to the general powers so conferred, the Board shall have the following specific powers:

- a) To act in accordance with the provisions of the Articles of Incorporation of the Academy and the laws of the state of Illinois.
- b) To establish the location of the principal office of the Academy.
- c) To invest and administer the funds of the Academy.
- d) To arrange for an annual audit of the accounts of the Treasurer.
- e) To prescribe examinations and other requirements for admission, as provided in Article I, Section 2, of the Bylaws.
- f) To elect the Officers of the Academy.
- g) To approve applications for membership as required in the Bylaws.
- h) To elect an Admissions Committee, a Review and Evaluation Committee, and to authorize such other committees as it may deem necessary for the conduct of the affairs of the Academy.
- i) To establish and prescribe the use of a corporate seal.

ARTICLE IV

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

During any interim between meetings of the Board, the business of the Academy shall be conducted by an Executive Committee comprised of the Officers and the immediate Past-President. The Executive Committee shall have such powers as may be delegated to it by the Board, except the specific powers enumerated as (b), (d), (e), (f), (g), (h), and (i) in Section 5 of Article III.

ARTICLE V

OFFICERS

SECTION 1. Officers. The Officers of the Academy, all of whom shall be members, shall consist of a President, a President-Elect, four Vice-Presidents, a Secretary, and a Treasurer.

SEC. 2. Election and Term of Office. At each annual meeting of the Board, the Directors present, by a vote of a majority of the whole Board shall elect, separately and in the order named, a President-Elect, two or more Vice-Presidents, a Secretary, and a Treasurer.

At the annual meeting of the Board, if either (a) the President-Elect has succeeded the President and has served in that capacity for six months or more by reason of the office of President becoming vacant or (b) the office of the President-Elect is vacant, except in the case where the President-Elect has succeeded to the office of the President and has served in that capacity for less than six months, the Directors by a vote of a majority of the whole Board shall, prior to the election of the President-Elect, elect a President to serve from the close of such meeting of the Board until the close of the next succeeding annual meeting of the Board.

Except as hereinafter provided, the President-Elect, having been so elected at an annual meeting of the Board, shall automatically succeed the President at the close of the first subsequent annual meeting of the Board, and he shall serve as the President until the close of the second subsequent annual meeting of the Board. In the event the office of President becomes vacant, the President-Elect shall automatically succeed to fill the vacancy for the unexpired term. If the President-Elect so succeeds the President and serves in that capacity for less than six months prior to the close of the next annual meeting of the Board following his succession to the Presidency, he shall further serve as President until the close of the next subsequent annual meeting of the Board.

The term of two of the Vice-Presidents elected at each annual meeting of the Board shall be from the close of such meeting until the close of the second succeeding annual meeting of the Board. The term of any other Vice-Presidents elected at each annual meeting of the Board shall be from the close of such meeting until the close of the next succeeding annual meeting of the Board. The terms of the Secretary and the Treasurer shall be from the close of the annual meeting of the Board at which each is elected until the close of the next succeeding annual meeting of the Board.

Except as provided above, a retiring President shall thereafter be permanently ineligible for election for another term as President or President-Elect.

A retiring Vice-President shall not be eligible for re-election as a Vice-President at the meeting at which his term expires.

Each Officer shall hold office for the term for which he is elected and until his successor shall have been elected.

In the event of vacancy in the office of both the President and President-Elect, the Board shall by majority vote of the whole Board elect a member to fill the vacancy for the unexpired term of the President.

In the event a vacancy occurs among the Vice-Presidents, or in the office of Secretary or Treasurer, the Board shall by majority vote of the whole Board elect a member to fill the vacancy for the unexpired term.

ARTICLE VI
DUTIES OF OFFICERS

SECTION 1. President. The President shall preside at the meetings of the Board and of the Academy. He shall appoint committees authorized by the Board. He may sign with the Treasurer, or any other person authorized by the Board, contracts or other instruments which the Board has authorized to be executed.

SEC. 2. President-Elect. The President-Elect shall have such duties as may be assigned to him by the President or by the Board. In the absence of the President, or in the event of his inability or refusal to act, the President-Elect shall perform the duties of the President's office.

SEC. 3. Vice-Presidents. Each of the Vice-Presidents shall have such duties as may be assigned to him by the President or by the Board.

SEC. 4. Secretary. The Secretary shall record and file minutes of all meetings of the Board, give all notices, be custodian of the corporate records of the Academy, and in general shall perform all customary duties incident to the office of Secretary.

SEC. 5. Treasurer. The Treasurer shall keep a register of the members, have charge of the preparation and publication of any Year Book which may be published, have general supervision of any arrangements for holding examinations, have charge and custody of all funds and securities, collect dues, pay bills, prepare financial statements, and in general perform all customary duties incident to the office of Treasurer. The Treasurer shall give a bond for the faithful discharge of his duties, the cost of which shall be paid by the Academy.

ARTICLE VII
FINANCES AND CONTRACTS

SECTION 1. Dues. Except as hereinafter provided, each member shall pay such dues for each calendar year as may be established by the Board. Such dues shall be payable as of January 1 of the calendar year. Any member who has become totally disabled or who, having attained age 65, notifies the Treasurer in writing that he has retired from active work, may be exempted from the payment of dues at the discretion of the Board. Any member who has attained age 70 prior to the calendar year with respect to which dues are payable shall be exempted from the payment of dues.

It shall be the duty of the Treasurer to cause to be notified by mail any member whose dues may be six months in arrears and to accompany such notice by a copy of this Section. If the dues remain unpaid three months following the time of mailing such notice, the Treasurer shall strike the name of such member from the rolls and such person shall cease to be a member of the Academy. Such person may, however, again become a member by applying for membership and by fulfilling the requirements for new members in effect at the time of such application, including payment of such arrears of dues as the Board shall direct.

SEC. 2. Contracts. The Board may authorize any Officer or agent to enter into any contract or execute and deliver any instrument in the name or on behalf of the Academy.

SEC. 3. Checks. All checks, drafts, or other orders for the payment of money, notes, or other evidences of indebtedness shall be signed by such Officer or agent of the Academy as shall from time to time be determined by the Board.

SEC. 4. Deposits. All funds of the Academy not otherwise employed or invested shall be deposited to the credit of the Academy in such banks, trust companies, or other depositories as the Board may select.

ARTICLE VIII

RESIGNATION AND DISCIPLINE OF MEMBERS

SECTION 1. Resignation. Any member who is not in default in payment of dues and against whom no complaints or charges are pending may at any time file his resignation in writing with the Treasurer and, when accepted by the Board, it shall become effective as of the date it was filed. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Board may in its discretion permit the resignation of a member against whom a complaint or charge is pending. The Board, on written application of any member who has resigned, may reinstate such member subject to such conditions as it may prescribe.

SEC. 2. Discipline. The Board, at any meeting attended by at least one-half of its members, shall have the power to consider and take action, as herein provided, with respect to all questions which may arise as to the conduct of a member of the Academy in his relationship to the Academy or its members, or in his profession, or in the practice thereof, or affecting the interests of the actuarial profession. The Board may, on its own initiative, investigate and take action with respect to any such question, and may also receive and hear any complaint relating to the conduct of a member preferred in writing and subscribed to by a member.

In the course of dealing with questions and complaints relating to the conduct of members, the Board may appoint, from among the members of the Academy, committees and boards vested with the powers specified herein:

- a) Investigating committees empowered to investigate questions and complaints and to prefer charges against a member.
- b) Prosecuting committees empowered to prosecute charges against a member at hearings before the Board or a disciplinary board.
- c) Disciplinary boards empowered to hear evidence relating to questions and complaints and to make findings with respect to such evidence.

The procedures for such committees and boards shall be prescribed by the Board. The Board may retain counsel for the assistance of the Board and of committees and boards appointed by it.

In any hearing before the Board or a disciplinary board, a member proceeded against shall have the right to appear personally and by counsel, to be informed of the nature and content of the question or complaint, to examine the evidence presented, to examine adverse witnesses, and to present witnesses and evidence in his behalf. Any member preferring a complaint may appear personally and by counsel. Witnesses called in the course of hearings involving conduct shall vouch for the truth of their statements on their word of honor.

In all proceedings under this Section, the Board shall decide, directly or upon review of the findings of a body appointed by it, whether or not misconduct has occurred. If the Board finds that misconduct has occurred, it may warn, admonish, reprimand, suspend, or expel the member, provided that no order reprimanding, suspending, or expelling a member shall be issued except after a hearing before the Board or a disciplinary board.

A member against whom an order of suspension or expulsion has been rendered shall, upon application to the Board within thirty days thereafter, be entitled to appeal to the members attending a meeting upon the following conditions:

- a) All rights and privileges of membership shall be suspended during the pendency of the appeal.
- b) The notice of appeal shall be in writing and shall stipulate that the appealing member consents to the mailing to the members of a transcript of the evidence and copies of exhibits in the form approved by a majority of the Board.
- c) The appealing member shall, within ten days after an invoice of the amount due is sent to him, deposit with the Treasurer the cost of transcribing and printing the transcript of the evidence and copies of any and all exhibits.

In the event the decision of the Board shall be set aside, the Treasurer shall return to the appealing member the amount of the deposit. Otherwise the deposit shall be retained by the Academy.

In the event of an appeal to the members the decision of the Board may be affirmed, modified, or set aside by the vote of a majority of the members present and voting at a meeting of the Academy.

The Board may, in its discretion, reinstate to membership at any time a member suspended or expelled under this Section, provided, in the event the suspension or expulsion had been affirmed by the members, the reinstatement shall not take effect unless and until confirmed by a vote of a majority of the members present and voting at a meeting of the Academy.

Except as otherwise provided, all proceedings under this Section shall be deemed confidential and kept secret. The Board, however, shall notify the members of their action in all instances in which the Board orders the suspension or expulsion of a member. Such notification shall not be given until the time to appeal has expired or, in the event of an appeal, until a majority of the members present at a meeting of the Academy have voted in favor of suspension or expulsion. At the same time notification is given to the members, the Board may also give notice of such suspension or expulsion to such newspapers or journals as it may select.

In the event of subsequent reinstatement of the member, the Board shall give notice of such action to the members of the Academy and to any newspapers or journals previously advised by the Board of the member's suspension or expulsion.

ARTICLE IX

NOTICE

The requirement that notice be given to members or other persons shall be satisfied when a letter has been deposited in a United States Post Office mailbox addressed to the last known address of such person.

ARTICLE X

INDEMNIFICATION

Each person who at any time shall serve, or shall have served, as an Officer, member of the Board, committee member, or member of any disciplinary board of the Academy (and his heirs, executors, administrators, and personal representatives) shall be indemnified by the Academy against all costs and expenses (including but not limited to legal fees, amounts of judgments paid, and amounts paid in settlement) reasonably incurred in connection with the defense of any claim, action, suit, or proceeding, whether civil, criminal, administrative, or other, in which he or they may be involved by virtue of such person being or having been an Officer, member of the Board, committee member, or member of any disciplinary board of the Academy, or in connection with any appeal therein; provided, however, that in the event of a settlement the indemnification herein provided shall apply only when the Board approves such settlement; and provided further that such indemnity shall not be operative with respect to any matter as to which such person shall have been finally adjudged liable in such claim, action, suit, or proceeding on account of his own willful misconduct.

The rights accruing to any person under this Article shall be without prejudice to any rights or benefits given by the Board inconsistent therewith in special cases and shall not exclude any other rights or benefits to which he may be lawfully entitled.

ARTICLE XI

USE OF FINANCIAL RESOURCES: DISSOLUTION

The funds of the Academy shall be devoted exclusively to the purposes stated in paragraph 5 of the Articles of Incorporation. No part of the net earnings of the Academy shall ever inure in whole or in part to the benefit of any member or individual. If the Academy is dissolved, all of its remaining assets shall be transferred to one or more organizations organized and operated exclusively for purposes similar to those of the Academy.

ARTICLE XII

AMENDMENTS

Amendments to the Bylaws proposed by a vote of two-thirds of the Directors present at a duly convened meeting of the Board shall be mailed forthwith to the members and shall become effective thirty days after such mailing, unless 10 per cent or more of the members notify the Secretary in writing within that time that they disapprove of the proposal. Any proposal thus disapproved shall be presented to the next annual meeting of the Academy and shall then take effect if approved by a majority of the members present.

GUIDES TO PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT

(Issued by Authority of the Board of Directors, November, 1969)

Professional conduct involves the actuary's own sense of integrity and his professional relationship with those to whom he renders services, with his employer, with other members of the profession, and with the world at large. In all these relationships every member of the profession is concerned with his own behavior and, as the good name of the profession is the concern of all its members, with the behavior of his colleagues.

In order to assist the Board of Directors and the Academy in achieving the objectives of the Academy and, more importantly, to guide members of the Academy when they encounter questions of professional conduct as actuaries, the following "Guides to Professional Conduct" have been prepared by order of, and approved by, the Board. As is true of codes of ethics generally, these Guides deal with precepts and principles only. They are not precise rules and are subject to interpretations in relation to the variety of circumstances that occur in practice. Any member wishing advice regarding the application of these Guides to a particular set of facts is urged to consult the Chairman of the Professional Conduct Committee.

1. Professional Duty.

- a) The member will act in a manner to uphold the dignity of the actuarial profession and to fulfill its responsibility to the public.
- b) The member will bear in mind that the actuary acts as an expert when he gives actuarial advice, and he will give such advice only when he is qualified to do so.
- c) The member will not provide actuarial service for or associate professionally with any person or organization where there is an evident possibility that his service may be used in a manner that is contrary to the public interest or the interest of his profession or in a manner to evade the law.

2. Relationship of the Actuary to His Client or Employer.

- a) Matters will be so ordered that all concerned are clear as to who is the member's client or employer and in what capacity the member is serving his client or employer.

- b) The member will act for each client or employer with scrupulous attention to the trust and confidence that the relationship implies and will have due regard for the confidential nature of his work.
- c) The member will recognize his ethical responsibilities to the person or organization whose actions may be influenced by his actuarial opinions or findings. When it is not feasible for the member to render his opinions or findings directly to such person or organization, he will act in such a manner as to leave no doubt that he is the source of the opinions or findings and to indicate clearly his personal availability to provide supplemental advice and explanation. If such opinions or findings are submitted to another actuary for review, either he or the other actuary will be available for supplemental advice and explanation.

3. Nature of the Actuary's Responsibility to His Client or Employer.

In any situation in which there is or may be a conflict of interest involving the member's actuarial service, whether one or more clients or employers are involved, the member will not perform such actuarial service if the conflict makes or is likely to make it difficult for him to act independently. Even if there is no question as to his ability to act independently, he will not act unless there has been a full disclosure of the situation to all parties involved and the parties have expressly agreed to his performance of the service.

4. Calculations and Recommendations.

- a) The member will customarily include in any report or certificate quoting actuarial costs, reserves, or liabilities a statement or reference describing or clearly identifying the data and the actuarial methods and assumptions employed.
- b) The member will exercise his best judgment to ensure that any calculations or recommendations made by him or under his direction are based on sufficient and reliable data, that any assumptions made are adequate and appropriate, and that the methods employed are consistent with the sound principles established by precedents or common usage within the profession.
- c) If, nevertheless, a client or employer requests the member to prepare a study which in his opinion deviates from this practice, any resulting report, recommendation, or certificate submitted by him will include an appropriate and explicit qualification of his findings.

5. Advertising and Relations with Other Members.

- a) The member will neither engage in nor condone any advertising or other activity which can reasonably be regarded as being likely to attract professional work unfairly, or where the tone, form, and content are not strictly professional.
- b) The member will conduct his professional activities on a high plane. He will avoid unjustifiable or improper criticism of others and will not attempt to injure maliciously the professional reputation of any other actuary. He will recognize that there is substantial room for honest differences of opinion on many matters.

6. Remuneration.

The member will make full and timely disclosure to a client as to all direct and indirect compensation that he or his firm may receive from all sources in relation to any assignment the member or his firm undertakes for the client.

7. Titles.

The member will use a designation dependent upon elective or appointive qualification within the Academy, such as "President," "Member of the Board of Directors," or "Member of the Education and Examination Committee," only when he is acting in such capacity on behalf of the Academy.

OPINIONS AS TO PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT

The Bylaws of the American Academy of Actuaries place in the Board of Directors the power to consider and take action with respect to questions which may arise as to the conduct of a member in his relations to the Academy or its members, or in his profession, or in the practice thereof, or affecting the interests of the actuarial profession. In doing so, the Bylaws grant certain disciplinary powers to the Board in case it determines that misconduct has occurred.

The Board names a Professional Conduct Committee to have continuous oversight over the Guides to Professional Conduct, and to recommend revision or repeal of specific guides and also new guides. The Committee also issues interpretive opinions on the Guides and answers inquiries about professional conduct, including both general inquiries and those relating to particular situations but not to named members. (Complaints and questions involving named members should be directed to the President rather than to this Committee.)

The Opinions issued to date are set forth herein. All Opinions of the American Academy of Actuaries are designated "A." Each other actuarial organization in the United States has its own designation. There is a general understanding among the actuarial organizations that all will use the same Opinion Number when dealing with the same subject. Through an exchange of drafts the Opinions on a subject may be identical or nearly so. This may not always be the case, however.

OPINION A-1: RELATIONS WITH OTHER ACTUARIES

INTRODUCTION

The following statement by Francis Bacon is often quoted*: "I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which as men of course do seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and ornament thereunto." Much of a professional man's knowledge comes from what has been contributed to the profession by others before him. This does not cease with the past, however. There must be continual interchange of information and opinion which enriches the total knowledge within a profession. Ideas and things that have been learned from experience are not patented. Through professional articles and speeches, members of a profession contribute from their knowledge to the improvement of the group. Such cooperation is essential so that the whole profession may keep up with the rapid changes of the business world and the demands of the profession. An individual actuary's particular experience must be augmented by what is provided by others in the profession in order to develop sources of knowledge of the theory and techniques of the profession.

This leads to the necessity, as well as the desirability, of there being cordial relations and mutual confidence among the members of a profession. This contributes to the advancement of the profession and to the improved quality of its service to its clients. Undue rivalry between the members of a profession would weaken and destroy the very things which distinguish a profession from commercial business. The usual promotional procedures of a commercial business—such things as self-laudatory advertising, solicitation, obtaining business solely on a price basis—are not suitable to a profession. A characteristic of, and a satisfaction to, the professional man is to have the respect and good opinion of his fellow practitioners. Mutual confidence is built on adherence to ethical conduct and by the observation of professional etiquette and courtesy.

Competence and concern for clients require that a professional man be ready to refer work to specialists or consult with them, where desirable. He should not feel that, in so doing, he might lose his client to the colleague so consulted. Similarly, if an actuary is requested by a client of another actuary to do work which supplements such actuary's work, or is of a different nature, the client's actuary should be able to expect professional courtesy from the other actuary.

PREAMBLE TO GUIDES

"Professional conduct involves the actuary's own sense of integrity and his professional relationship with those to whom he renders services, with his employer, with other members of the profession, and with the world at large. In all these relationships every member of the profession is concerned with his own behavior and, as the good name of the profession is the concern of all its members, with the behavior of his colleagues."

OPINION

In the opinion of the Committee, an actuary, as a professional man, will show professional courtesy toward fellow actuaries and their clients. It is recognized that competition exists in the profession, since clients are free to change advisers, and it should be possible for the public to know what services are available. However, for the members of a profession to practice aggressive competition would be to destroy the desirable characteristics of a profession.

The Committee believes, therefore, that advertising in which the tone, form, and content are inappropriate to a profession and solicitation of clients in a manner which is discourteous or unprofessional are injurious to the profession of which the actuary is a member and upon which he depends for his professional stature. Thus, aggressive solicitation of clients and "raiding" another's clients are unprofessional and out of keeping with the Guides to Professional Conduct. The Committee also believes that underpricing of services and underestimating the amount of services needed for a specific assignment, when knowingly done in order to attract business, are unprofessional practices which conflict with the basic principles underlying the Guides as set forth in the Preamble to the Guides.

OPINION A-2: USE OF TITLES AND DESIGNATIONS

Guide 7 and Section 1 of Article I of the Bylaws are concerned primarily with the use of titles by members and, in particular, with designations related to the Academy. The purpose of the Guide is to clarify the proper use of a designation. For this Opinion, the term title means any title conferred by an employer and need not denote officer standing, and the term designation means a specific reference to any relationship of a member to the Academy.

As an example of the use of titles by a member, consider an employee who has the title of "Assistant Actuary" conferred by his employer. He may use this title and also the designation "M.A.A.A." If he wishes to use both, he would sign as follows:

James H. Jones, M.A.A.A.
Assistant Actuary

or

James H. Jones, Member of the American Academy of Actuaries
Assistant Actuary

If an employee has been given no title, he merely signs his name with or without the "M.A.A.A." or "Member of the American Academy of Actuaries," as he chooses. This Guide applies fully, whether or not the employee has a title.

An actuary might act other than as an employee or other than on behalf of a client in giving an actuarial opinion before a public committee or other body for which he is not specifically compensated by anyone. In such activity he should adhere to this Guide as to the use of designations.

A member of the Board of Directors may use his designation "Member of the Board of Directors, American Academy of Actuaries" only when dealing with Academy business or when authorized to speak for the Academy. The same is true of all appointed or elected positions in the Academy.

The Committee also believes that a member may not include on a letterhead any references to offices and committee memberships he holds in the Academy, except when used for Academy business. Regardless of his offices either elected or appointed, he may never speak for the Academy or for one of its committees unless authorized to do so by the Board of Directors.

In the opinion of the Committee, it would not be a violation of Guide 7 to refer to offices held in the Academy in biographical material of any type (including material in connection with a book or article written by a member), or in connection with other generally published material. It would not be a violation to refer to offices held in the Academy when giving testimony in a court of law or before a public body, provided it is made clear that the member does not speak for the Academy or one of its committees, unless specifically authorized to do so.

It would not be a violation to use such biographical material when appropriate in connection with a promotion, change in employment or on any other similar occasion. The ultimate test is whether the reader could be led to conclude that the member is representing himself as a spokesman of the Academy or of one of its component parts.

OPINION A-3: TRANSMITTAL OF ACTUARIAL REPORTS

DEFINITIONS

An actuarial report is essentially a statement of actuarial findings, conclusions or recommendations resulting from the actuary's experience and judgment, applied within the framework of a particular set of facts and assumptions. In this Opinion, the term is intended to include any communication, certificate or report based, in whole or in part, on knowledge which is peculiar to an actuary or where the reader of any such communication, certificate or report may be influenced by the fact that the writer is an actuary.

The term client is intended to include any person or organization for whom an actuarial report is prepared, and whose actions or decisions may reasonably be expected to be influenced by such a report.

OBJECTIVE

Any manner of transmittal of an actuarial report which involves the risk that the underlying facts and assumptions, and the limitations resulting from their use, are not fully communicated to the client involves a corresponding risk that the conclusions or recommendations may be misinterpreted or misapplied. It is important, therefore, that this risk be minimized or eliminated.

PERTINENT GUIDES

Guides 2(c) and 4(a) are both pertinent to the question of proper transmittal of actuarial reports. These Guides have, in the Committee's opinion, been designed to assure the maximum practical safeguards against the misinterpretation or misuse of actuarial findings or recommendations. Thus, Guide 4(a) provides for the inclusion in an actuarial report of such underlying data as are essential to the findings or conclusions reported. The key test is whether another actuary, unfamiliar with the situation, would find the information sufficient to appraise the conclusions.

Guide 2(c) is designed primarily to assure that the information called for in Guide 4(a) will, in fact, be communicated to the client, and that the client will be in a position to verify his understanding of the report directly with the actuary who prepared it, or with another actuary equally well qualified to explain the report. It also serves to give assurance to the actuary that his conclusions and recommendations are properly interpreted and applied.

ACTUARY ACTING FOR AN INSURANCE COMPANY

When an actuary advises an insurance company on premiums, dividends, reserves and related matters, the client is the company, its policy-making executives and in some situations its board of directors, whether or not he is an employee of the insurance company. Thus, in such circumstances, the member should satisfy himself that the persons who requested his report are fully cognizant of the significance of his findings.

ACTUARY ACTING FOR A POLICYHOLDER OF AN INSURANCE COMPANY

When an actuary prepares a report for a policyholder (or a prospective policyholder), which contains actuarial costs or forecasts that are in the nature of recommendations rather than guarantees fully supported by the insurance company, Guides 2(c) and 4(a) are fully applicable, since in this situation the policyholder is the client. For example, in offering recommendations as to contributions under a deposit administration pension contract, the actuary responsible, whether an employee of the insurance company or an outside consultant, should make certain that he is personally identified as the source of the recommendation, that his report is not abridged or edited on route to the client, and that his availability to answer any questions regarding the report is known. This should apply whether or not there is an explicit recommendation of contributions, and whether or not the report states clearly the extent to which company guarantees are involved.

ACTUARY IN RELATION TO NON-INSURED PENSION PLANS

When an actuary prepares a report including cost or contribution figures in relation to a non-insured pension plan, Guides 2(c) and 4(a) apply. Thus, if the report is delivered by a non-actuarial associate of the member, or through a bank or trust company, the Committee believes that the member should recognize the risk of misinterpretation or misuse, and he should guard against it by application of the procedures indicated by Guide 2(c). This can be done where the actuary does not sign or deliver the report, by the concurrent use of a supplemental statement, signed by the actuary, covering the actuarial portions of the material included.

As a special case of the foregoing, it is the opinion of the Committee that a member should not become a party to any arrangement whereby a bank, investment advisor, insurance broker or other separate person or organization will use reports prepared by the member, unless the member is identified and it is clearly understood and agreed that the member's responsibility is to the employer whose plan or proposed plan is the subject of the report and that the provisions of Guide 2(c) will be strictly observed.

OPINION A-4: ACTUARIAL PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICES IN CONNECTION WITH PENSION PLANS

INTRODUCTION

This Opinion is intended to interpret and amplify the application of Section 4 of the Guides to Professional Conduct to actuarial valuations of employee retirement plans. As such, the Opinion is directed to actuaries who prepare actuarial reports providing information directed towards employers, government bodies, employee groups, unions or other members of the public in connection with the design, revision, valuation or funding of employee retirement plans.

The Committee recognizes that it would be inappropriate to prescribe inflexible guides for the performance of the actuary's work in connection with pension plan calculations. They also recognize that the selection of assumptions and cost methods involves professional judgment based on individual circumstances applicable to a particular plan, including the purpose or purposes which the valuation is intended to serve, the nature of the employee group, the degree of funding already accomplished and the prospect of permanence of the sponsoring organization or of the plan. The promulgation of uniform procedures or practices which fail to take into account such variables would, in the opinion of the Committee, be unprofessional.

On the other hand, the Committee believes that the effectiveness of the actuary would be enhanced by the adoption of a statement of principles relating to appropriate application of actuarial science to pension problems and to adequate disclosure of pertinent and material facts bearing on his work. It is believed that such a statement of the basic responsibilities of the actuary will tend to minimize possibilities of misunderstanding or misinterpretation by those relying on his work.

THE APPLICABLE GUIDES

The following material appearing in the Guides to Professional Conduct is especially applicable to the work of the actuary on pension matters:

"4. Calculations and Recommendations.

- a) The member will customarily include in any report or certificate quoting actuarial costs, reserves, or liabilities a statement or reference describing or clearly identifying the data and the actuarial methods and assumptions employed.
- b) The member will exercise his best judgment to ensure that any calculations or recommendations made by him or under his direction are based on sufficient and reliable data, that any assumptions made are adequate and appropriate, and that the methods employed are consistent with the sound principles established by precedents or common usage within the profession.

- c) If, nevertheless, a client or employer requests the member to prepare a study which in his opinion deviates from this practice, any resulting report, recommendation, or certificate submitted by him will include an appropriate and explicit qualification of his findings."

CLARIFYING STATEMENT OF WORKING GUIDE

A requirement common to all actuarial valuations is that assumptions and methods be selected and applied with integrity, good judgment and perspective in relation to the particular problem.

Diverse purposes which an actuarial valuation may be designed to serve may call for approaches which differ from those appropriate to other situations. For example, the methods and assumptions appropriate to solvency tests associated with possible plan terminations, plan mergers or partial plan spinoffs, may be quite different from those appropriate to the determination of long-range cost levels of continuing plans. In the opinion of the Committee, it is reasonable for the actuary to give regard to the practical effect of his report in terms of its purpose.

In addition to considerations of fund solvency or the development of benefit security for participants, the actuary will probably take into account the financial needs and planning of the plan sponsor, as well as factors which may relate to requirements or suggestions made by accountants, governmental agencies and bargaining or other agreements.

Other special purposes of reports might relate to bargaining situations, determination of tax-deductible costs or exploration of the effect on future costs of variations in experience or the introduction of ancillary benefits such as liberalized vesting, survivors' benefits, etc.

1. "Actuarial soundness" is neither an absolute nor a unique concept, but must be considered in relation to the problem at hand and the accuracy with which future experience can be predicted. Therefore, the Committee believes that general opinions as to "actuarial soundness" should be avoided, wherever possible, and that an opinion as to the adequacy of a given financing arrangement with respect to specifically defined objectives, assumptions or requirements should be substituted, where appropriate, or otherwise be appended.
2. The actuary's responsibilities in the pension field involve, to a high degree, considerations affecting the public interest. Accordingly, the Committee believes that he should give consideration to the following:

- a) Careful interpretation of his client's objectives in terms of plan design, benefit security, and financing.
  - b) Explanation of available alternatives and their effect on such objectives.
  - c) Translation of client objectives into the type or types of valuation to be performed (i.e., special purpose valuations).
  - d) Selection of appropriate assumptions and cost methods.
  - e) Periodic analyses of experience in relation to assumptions.
  - f) Analysis of trends in benefits, cost factors, social and economic factors affecting pensions, investment policies, employee security and the like.
  - g) Adequate and clear disclosure of pertinent facts and findings in actuarial reports.
3. In the furnishing of reliable information the actuary is typically in a position of rendering advice based on the interaction of many assumptions, some of which are not susceptible of accurate statistical prediction. Therefore, the actuary has a responsibility to avoid misunderstanding by means of adequate disclosures. Accordingly, in the opinion of the Committee the actuary's report, in addition to including the name of the actuary directing the report and his professional affiliation, should consider the following elements and give sufficient detail, where pertinent, to permit an objective appraisal of the valuation by another qualified actuary:
- a) The name of the person or firm retaining the actuary for the report, and the purpose which the report is intended to serve.
  - b) An outline or reference to an accessible outline of the plan of benefits being valued.
  - c) The effective date of the valuation, the date as of which the data were compiled, sources of data and any assumptions made with respect to unavailable census information.
  - d) A summary of the statistics pertaining to the group, broken down according to significant categories such as retired, active and terminated-vested, together with the book and market values of assets and the asset value used in the valuation.
  - e) A summary of the basic valuation results with a suitable statement relative to an appropriate level of pension cost and an appropriate range in contributions.

- f) A statement of the actuarial assumptions and methods, including, where appropriate, an appraisal of their suitability for the purposes at hand and reference to factors which have not been considered. Changes in actuarial assumptions from those used in previous reports should be stated and their effect noted.

This statement should not be limited to factors explicitly assumed but should include a reference to the handling, or absence of consideration, of such other factors as the actuary in his judgment deems to have pertinence in an evaluation of future costs or cost incidence in terms of the purpose to be served by his report. Such factors, for example, may include inflation, probable margins, effect of plant shutdown, etc.

MEMBERSHIP IN THE AMERICAN ACADEMY OF ACTUARIES

The requirements for admission to membership are set forth in Section 2 of Article I of the Bylaws. An actuary who meets the experience and educational requirements and wishes to apply for membership may request an application form from the office of the Academy. Complete instructions will be submitted to each applicant with the application.

It is important that a prospective applicant familiarize himself with both the Bylaws and the Guides to Professional Conduct before making application for membership in the Academy. When he signs the application form, he will be agreeing to be bound by them if his application is accepted.

The application form is designed to develop sufficient factual information concerning both the applicant's experience in responsible actuarial work and his educational qualifications for the actuarial profession to enable the Admissions Committee and the Board of Directors to determine whether the applicant meets the established requirements for admission. The applicant should be sure to give complete information with respect to each section of the application. If insufficient space is provided for this purpose, a supplemental statement should be appended to the application. Applications should be filled in legibly, preferably typewritten.

Applications will be considered favorably only if affirmative evidence is presented to demonstrate that the applicant meets both the experience requirements and the educational requirements. Therefore, the applicant is encouraged to submit supplemental evidence of his qualifications if he feels that they are not fully established by the information called for by the application form.

A nonrefundable application fee of $10 must accompany each application. It will not be applied toward the payment of dues for those candidates accepted for membership. Application fees paid by candidates who are not accepted for membership will not be refunded. Dues for the year 1972 have been established by the Board of Directors at $15 per member.

Applications and all inquiries should be addressed to

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

You have heard the report of the Chairman of the Accreditation Committee and have noted the progress made in the past year. Actually, the progress made is much greater than that represented by completed legislation and formal regulations made effective in the several states mentioned. Conversations and communications are taking place with the supervisory authorities of a number of other states, and these could result in formal actions of accreditation at almost any time.

The thing I want to talk about today, however, is not accreditation but the consequences of accreditation. The original idea, of course, was that accreditation would establish, maintain, and upgrade the standards of the profession as a whole. In particular, it was recognized that the public should be protected from the acts of unqualified practitioners. Toward that end the Academy moved to have governmental agencies at both federal and state levels establish standards for qualified actuaries. I doubt very much that the organizers of the Academy thought very much about or were much concerned with any other consequences of accreditation.

CONTACT WITH OTHER PROFESSIONS

As time goes on, however, it becomes more and more apparent that the achievement of accreditation will bring with it several consequences of major importance. One of the most evident of these has been an accelerated and intensified contact with other professions. The most notable example of this, so far, has been the exchange of ideas between the actuarial and the accounting professions in connection with the guide proposed by the accountants for auditing life insurance companies.

These exchanges have given us insights into the hopes, fears, methods, and problems of the accounting profession that we probably could have gotten in no other way. At the same time, they have disclosed for us a number of problems that we scarcely knew existed. I will discuss some of these in greater detail subsequently.

Although individual actuaries have worked with individual accountants for many years, it has been only within the past few years that the actuaries and the accountants have attempted to work together at professional organization levels. Even the development of the now well-known Accounting Principles Board Opinion No. 8, I believe, was more a matter of individual actuaries working with the organized accounting profession. Individual actuaries have long worked with individual attorneys and individual medical practitioners on various matters. I have no doubt that occasions will arise wherein problems involving the actuarial profession with these two great professions will need to be considered at the professional organization level.

You will be able to think of other professions with which the actuarial profession has and will become involved. Most of these involvements will be pleasant and productive. Some, however, may require great patience and forbearance to arrive at mutually satisfactory results. A case in point may very well be the discussions between the Academy and the American Society of Pension Actuaries. Discussions are continuing on many of the problems in this area, and the Board has properly taken no official attitude towards the ASPA.

CONTACT WITH GOVERNMENT

Another consequence of accreditation that is becoming more and more evident is the need for more and better-informed liaison with governmental organizations. The original plan for the Academy, of course, contemplated frequent contacts by representatives of the Academy with state legislatures and state insurance supervisory officials. You are familiar with much that is going on in this area and with the excellent contact that has been maintained with the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, resulting in the adoption by the NAIC of Rules 10 and 11 in the "Instructions for Completing Life and Accident and Health Annual Statement Blank."

Within a few years after the organization of the Academy, it became evident that obtaining the degree of professional recognition desired would involve education at the federal level of a number of the various arms of the government. In fact, a number of our Board members felt that progress in accreditation at the federal level would be more rapidly obtainable and, possibly, even more desirable than accreditation at the state level. The result of this feeling was the creation of what is commonly known as the "Washington subcommittee" of the Accreditation Committee. More formally, it is the Subcommittee on National Regulations. But this was not all. The same influences, among others, brought about the retaining of a Washington counsel in the person of Richard J. Congleton.

Together the Washington subcommittee and our Washington counsel have done yeoman service in keeping the Board informed as to what is going on in Washington that might affect the actuarial profession, and in conveying information to the various federal agencies about the aims, standards, and capabilities of the actuarial profession. An example of this is a recent proposal by the Securities and Exchange Commission, in a proposed amendment to Regulation S-X, that actuarial reports be filed under certain conditions with the SEC. The Executive Committee of your Board responded to the invitation by the SEC for comments with respect to the proposed amendment. Its response supported the proposed rule and suggested what it thought was an improvement in the language.

During the past year the Railroad Retirement Commission has sought the assistance of the Academy both in the naming of technical advisers to the commission and in the technical appraisal of proposed changes in legislation. I have no doubt that requests of this nature will increase. Also, recommendations have been sent to the Social Security Advisory Council, the governor of New York, and the Adjusted Earnings Subcommittee of the NAIC.

ETHICAL IMPLICATIONS

Still another consequence of accreditation appears to be an increasing need for a more complete understanding of and, possibly, a more effective enforcement of the Rules of Professional Conduct. In the early days of the Academy it seemed that nearly all the alleged infractions of the Rules of Professional Conduct involved, in some way, questions relating to methods used in obtaining professional assignments. Emphasis seems to be shifting to questions related to responsibilities for professional work. A recent example involves the question of how far an actuary, trained in the field of life contingencies, may go in commenting on the work of an actuary trained in the field of property and liability insurance. Also, much of the problem created by a proposal of the accountants to eliminate any reference to the actuary in their opinions on the financial statements of life insurance companies arises from a Rule of Professional Conduct. That rule requires an actuary to make known to anyone who may be influenced by his opinion that he is the source thereof and that he is responsible for it.

A particularly troublesome matter keeps coming up in any discussion of the considerations involved in expression of an actuarial opinion with respect to the financial statement of a life insurance company. I have reference to the meaning of the word "independence" when it is applied to an actuary who is rendering such an opinion.

I say the matter is troublesome because there seem to be excellent grounds for more than one concept of the term. Here are some of the problems. Individual consulting actuaries, practicing by themselves or as members of actuarial firms, are inclined to see nothing wrong with defining "independence" to mean that the actuary must not be permanently employed by, or have a financial interest in, the subject company and that he must not have performed the work being examined. On the other hand, actuaries on the permanent actuarial staffs of life insurance companies are inclined to feel that they can be just as professionally "independent" in the review of the actuarial work going into the financial statements of their particular companies as anybody else. Then there is the case of an actuary employed by an accounting firm. He may feel that he is just as "independent" with respect to a client as the consulting actuary who is on his own or who works with an actuarial firm. On the other hand, actuaries on their own or with a consulting firm might say, "Yes, but is he 'independent' with respect to the accountants for whom he works?"

RECRUITING

A letter by the chairman of the ALC-LIAA Joint Committee on Financial Reporting Principles may point to yet another consequence to the Academy as we move along the road to complete accreditation. The letter was addressed to the chairman of the Joint Actuarial Committee on Financial Reporting, but because that committee is a temporary committee, the letter was passed on the Academy as possibly the proper place for its consideration. The letter pointed out that the implementation of "adjusted earnings" in the financial reporting of life insurance companies bids fair to overtax the capacities of the existing supply of qualified actuaries. It suggested that no adequate effort is currently underway to recruit and train actuarial personnel needed for the future.

SUBSTANTIVE PRONOUNCEMENTS

Among the consequences of accreditation, I have so far mentioned intensified contact between the actuarial profession, as a profession, and other professions, as well as with a number of governmental organizations. I have pointed out that accreditation has certain ethical implications and that it may result in the recruiting chore being assigned to the Academy.

Running across and through all these consequences is another one which I think may be the most important and far-reaching of all. Actuarial organizations other than the Academy have traditionally steered clear of substantive pronouncements. Instances in which the profession is being pressed to take a position on substantive matters have been occurring at an accelerated rate. Since the Academy is the only actuarial organization whose membership represents all facets of the actuarial profession, it would seem to be a logical body to make pronouncements of a substantive nature when the need arises.

Growing out of our contacts with the accounting profession and with certain governmental units is the somewhat pressing need for the codification of something frequently referred to as "generally accepted actuarial methods," particularly as it relates to the examination of actuarial items in a life insurance company financial statement. In its report to its sponsoring organizations, the Joint Actuarial Committee on Financial Reporting recommends in part as follows:

We recommend that the Academy of Actuaries activate a standing committee on financial reporting principles. The charge to this committee should include the development and publication of the actuarial considerations applicable to the financial reporting of life insurance companies. It should also include the publication of guides to the application of these considerations in practice and the definition of permitted ranges of variation where appropriate. The first responsibility of the committee should be the establishment of procedures for identifying "generally accepted actuarial methods," including particularly the level of agreement which must exist, and whether formal sanction of conclusions by the Board of Directors is appropriate.

The Academy Board acted to implement this recommendation.

Although I have said that the Academy seems to be the logical body to make pronouncements of a substantive nature, I do not intend to imply that any of the Academy's sponsoring organizations should therefore give up any of their prerogatives.

In conclusion, may I say that I think the main purpose of the Academy—accreditation—is now established in enough places that it will continue to grow at an increasing rate. Also, I think that the high quality of person you continue to elect to your Board ensures a high degree of success in dealing with the consequences of accreditation, whatever they may be in the future.

I thank each of you for the privilege of serving you during the past year.

DALE R. GUSTAFSON, Treasurer

We have examined the accompanying statement of assets and fund balance, resulting from cash transactions of AMERICAN ACADEMY OF ACTUARIES (an Illinois not-for-profit corporation) as of October 31, 1971, and the related statement of cash receipts and disbursements on account of income and expenses for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements present fairly the assets and fund balance of the American Academy of Actuaries at October 31, 1971, resulting from cash transactions and the income collected and expenses disbursed during the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting practices relating to not-for-profit corporations applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

MINUTES OF ANNUAL MEETING

The Sixth Annual Meeting of the American Academy of Actuaries was held at 11:00 A.M., October 11, 1971, at the Bourbon Orleans Hotel, New Orleans, Louisiana.

The meeting was called to order by President H. Raymond Strong. As provided in the Bylaws, an official Notice of Annual Meeting, dated September 17, 1971, was mailed to all members. In attendance were 120 members, and Secretary Halvorson declared that a quorum was present.

It was moved and seconded that the minutes of the November 16, 1970, meeting at the Palmer House, Chicago, Illinois, as published in the 1971 Year Book, be approved. Carried.

Secretary Halvorson reported that current membership was 3,017, representing an increase of 254 since the last annual meeting. He observed that it had been a busy year for officers and committees of the Academy, with five meetings of the Board of Directors, four additional meetings of the Executive Committee and many meetings of special committees.

It was moved and seconded that the Secretary's report be accepted. The motion was carried.

President Strong reported on the death of the following members during the past year:

KENNETH A. BECK	JOHN W. LINCOLN
ALAN L. BOULTON	ALLEN L. MAYERSON
NEIL E. BRATT	S. TYLER NELSON, SR.
AUGUSTIN J. CIMA	JOHN B. ST. JOHN
CLARK T. FOSTER	JAMES SCOTT
HAROLD A. GROUT	FRANK A. SHAILER
JOHN T. HOYT	CHARLES F. SMITH
EVERETT C. HUNTINGTON	ROBERT N. STABLER
CLAIR C. KIRKPATRICK	CHARLES M. STERNHELL
KERMIT LANG	THEODORE J. WYSOCKI

All were asked to rise for a moment of silence in respect to these men.

Treasurer Bruce presented a summary of the Treasurer's Report for the period November 1, 1970, to October 4, 1971, and reported that the final audited financial report for the Academy year would be published in the 1972 Year Book. The Treasurer's interim report for the eleven-month period was as follows:

INCOME AND DISBURSEMENTS
Income . . . . .	$41,933 43
Disbursements . . . . .	34,998 10
Excess of income . . . . .	$ 6,935 33

ASSETS AND OPERATING FUND AS OF OCTOBER 4, 1971
(CASH BASIS)

Assets . . . . .	$30,273 38
Operating fund . . . . .
Balance November 1, 1970 . . . . .	23,338 05
Excess of income . . . . .	6,935 33
Balance October 4, 1971 . . . . .	$30,273 38

It was moved and seconded that the Treasurer's Report be accepted, and the report was approved by vote of the membership.

Mr. Webster, Chairman of the Accreditation Committee, reported that during the past year administrative orders setting forth actuarial requirements for companies of the Life and Health Convention Blank have been issued by North Dakota, Pennsylvania, and Utah, and similar action is expected shortly in Colorado and Wisconsin. Amendments to Pension Codes or Pension Acts have been approved in Illinois, Nebraska, and North Carolina, and it is expected that the regulation to be issued in Wisconsin will apply to pension funds subject to that state's Employee Welfare Plan Disclosure Law. Mr. Webster also reported on developments at the federal level.

President Strong reported that our Washington, D.C., counsel, Mr. Richard Congleton, has recently had a serious operation but is progressing normally. He then delivered his presidential address on the progress of the American Academy of Actuaries (to be published in the 1972 Year Book).

President Strong then called successively for items of old business and items of new business. No additional items were raised by the membership, and President Strong then asked for a report from the Nominating Committee.

Mr. Wendell Milliman, Chairman of the Nominating Committee, presented the following members to serve on the Board of Directors for three-year terms, to succeed the six directors whose terms expire:

EDWIN F. BOYNTON
M. STANLEY HUGHEY
KENNETH H. ROSS
HENRY F. SCHEIG
ROBERT C. WINTERS

President Strong called for further nominations from the floor. There being none, it was moved and seconded that the nominations be closed and that the Secretary be instructed to cast one ballot for the individuals nominated to serve as Directors for three-year terms or until their successors are elected. The Secretary cast the ballot, and the nominees were duly elected.

President Strong thanked retiring Treasurer Bruce, the Academy's first Treasurer, for his fine work, and wished him success in his role as the new President of the Conference of Actuaries in Public Practice.

The new President, Robert Myers, upon receiving the gavel from retiring President Strong, expressed the gratitude of all members of the Academy to Mr. Strong for his leadership during this most important year in the Academy's life.

It was reported that Board of Directors has chosen October 23, 1972, as the date of next Annual Meeting of the American Academy of Actuaries, at the Americana Hotel, Bal Harbour, Florida.

The Annual Meeting was adjourned at 11:45 A.M.
